

12/2/70

Mr. Richard Kleindienst
Deputy Attorney General
Department of Justice
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Kleindienst,

John "Jack" Kennedy's handling of the Bay of Pigs invasion remains one of the most controversial aspects of his life. It is a long, complex story, and I am not sure if I can do it justice in a single letter.

There should be further FBI reports on this. The two available at the National Archives are quite incomplete. For example, Oswald was trapped in the Texas School Depository Building, with a camera. It seems unlikely that under such dramatic circumstances, any man, especially one of his training and experience, would have content himself with but a single picture. It also seems unlikely that, having been trapped inside the building, there was no official interest in him and his picture or pictures for so long.

So, I would like copies of any other reports on, of or about Oswald and to be informed of any permission to examine any other pictures, if no more any.

Sincerely,

Carroll G. Smith